

Want To Supercharge Your Factory Performance? Quiz Key Findings

A lack of labels as needed is a problem facing more than two-thirds of the respondents who failed to deliver as promised or ended up with air freight for emergency label orders as the consequence.

73.3%

of respondents turned to courier services to expedite urgent label deliveries.

Factories require flexibility to handle variable data on labels at the last minute, no matter if it is a price change, fiber content change or country of origin change.

61.7%

of respondents were required to make last-minute changes to the information on labels.

67.5%

of respondents said they missed a promised delivery date just because they didn't have the labels as needed.

77.5%

of respondents needed a timely replacement for lost or spoiled labels.

It is common that factories sometimes need to make up labels right away.

Externally purchased labels come with a minimum order quantity requirement, sometimes leading to excess inventory and even label obsolescence.

65.8%

of respondents regularly write off and/or scrap obsolete inventory of labels.

61.7%

of respondents said they purchased more labels than they needed simply because of the minimum order quantity requirement.

Get in touch with one of our experts to discover how In-Plant Printing Solutions can unlock speed, flexibility and resilience on your factory floor.

Click here